Brattleborough, (Vt.). Lectured on colonization in Greenfield, "and was opposed at the close by two gentlemen," who questioned him concerning the Garrisonian beliefs as to the rights of negroes. Gives part of the argument verbatim. The editor of the colonization paper thought that W.L.G. and the Colonization Society ought to work together. Discussed with Rev. J. N. Danforth his introduction as "Arnold Buffum the Matter." Can lecture in the North Village only on condition that no collection of money shall be made. Disapproves of Rev. West Brattleboro, ~~Mass.~~ Is sending some apples to the addressee's house for the fair. The writer refers to her lack of success in Greenfield and stresses the difficulty of rousing those whose "Anti Slavery sympathies are locked fast in the sleep of New Organization." The October Convention in Springfield has been effective there. The writer rejoices in her connection with the Boston Female Anti-Slavery Society. The writer's brother sent Garrison for the Liberator a letter to a church in Greenfield from which he was withdrawing. The writer would like to attend the (Chardon Street) Convention, "so much sneered at by the various papers."

Brattleboro, Vt.. The writer's reaction to a recent article by the addressee on "fallacies of nomenclature" in the Standard. Asks whether anything "specially called forth" her "blow at Fourierism." Expresses some thoughts on the Association Movement. There are two classes of Associationists. One class believes that slavery can be abolished effectually only by Association, but this does not advocate immediate emancipation. The second class thinks that slavery must be abolished "before the question of the full elevation of Labor can be thoroughly brought home..." The writer's own zeal for the anti-slavery cause has grown in proportion to his increasing trust in Association. Is convinced that "Antislavery victory must be won, before our day triumph for Association can come."

	To William Lloyd Garrison	No.66

Montpelier, (Vt.). Since requesting a visit by George Thompson, O. S. M. finds that the local Anti-Slavery society is in debt, owing to expenses incurred in circulating Mr. Wright's pamphlet and J. G. Birney's letter. Feels that his society must countermand its request for the Thompson visit. Requests W.L.G. not to show this letter to G. T. Refers to two Congregational clergymen who have renounced the American Colonization Society and are now working for the Abolitionists.

Putney, Vt.. Came from Bangor, Me. to Putney, Vt. where he is spending a few days "with Brother Noyes' family connections." Few individuals seem "to be in any tolerable degree prepared to receive the whole truth." E. P. is glad that so much Gospel truth is printed in the Liberator. Thinks that a majority of New Englanders are Abolitionists, who "have little or no moral feeling with regard to it." The real Abolitionists are the true followers of W.L.G. Will go to New York. Suggests two recent issues of the Liberator be sent to John H. Noyes. Asks if W.L.G. has seen The Witness, a paper started recently by J. H. N.

Churches here so "anti-Garrisonian", meeting had to be held in dance-hall. Anti-slavery in Vermont mainly Republican, hence uneasiness of leaders lest lecturers damage party. Audience proper, except for small disturbance at last meeting. Pillsbury more provoking than others, G.'s remarks favorably received. G. staying with James Hutchinson at Braintree. 	To William Lloyd Garrison	No.22

Shoreham, (Vt.). Philosophizes on the cutting down of a large tree. Has been considering the offer of an appointment as agent of the New England Anti-Slavery Society. Finally decided to accept it. His friends have advised him to write a pamphlet. Wants advice on the formation and operation of auxiliary societies. Discusses certain reviews and notices. Wants to avoid the charge that he used only copied material in his writings. Has been reviewing and criticising some of the colonization writings.

•Ardlington(sic) Heights near Washington, D.C.. Describes the site of the camp. It is very healthy, not one of the men was sick. They have spring water to drink and bathe in the Potomac. A great hospital here receives wounded soldiers almost every day. The 9th Mass. Battery (the writer's) is now completely equipped and ready to go into action. The Captain assigned to the writer a no. 1 post: "this must be the smartest man in the Detachment; it is a dangerous sic. Post but never mind, I am glad to have the opportunity..." Tells of an accident that happened to Sergeant Ackermann, due to a kicking horse. The writer has seen the city: "the Capitol is not finished and they say it never will be." At Arlington Heights they found flags at half mast for General Mansfield. A.L.S. 4p. 8 x 5 in.

•Camp Chase, Arlington (sic) Heights, Virginia: Most of the infantry regiments have left for other quarters, but four new regiments arrived today. When the friendly Pennsylvania Keystone Battery, which had been part of their company, left, the Captain gave order to fire a salute. The writer, volunteering to go with the mule team to get firewood, found wooden houses, ruined and abandoned by the Rebels, which are being used for firewood. Last Sunday the writer took a walk to General Lee's former residence, now the headquarters of General Heintzelmann. A negro, who as a slave in this place, told the writer about the marriage and property of General Lee. The writer encloses a leaf from the grave of a patriot.

“Camp near Brandy Station, Va.” The writer is very thankful for the addressee's letter and for the box that Mrs. Weston is sending: “it will be quite different from oping a hard tack Box.” The writer cannot send the Yarmouth Herald to Mary(?) as he reads it so much that there is nothing left of it. Comments with sympathy on the deaths of Mr. Willis and Miss Pierce, and mentions the marriage of Captain Pierce. The writer has not had letter from his wife since Christmas Day. The Battery is having a fine winter at camp. “... it was so warm today like in summer.” They are having a nice time in the winter quarters. “... the Boys are all well and in good spirits-eager for the spring campaign. They have four guns now, “but I hope while Capt. John Bigelow is in Boston, we may get some Recruits to fill the Battery up again.” Many horses have died, «Camp near Brandy Station, Va.» The writer, on a comfortable Sunday afternoon, imagines himself back at the addressee's home. "... the Dream was, as if I was in your kitchen-hear-you come downstairs singing ..." Thanks the addressee for the contents of a box, especially the mince pies, which taste "still more sweeter while they were made by your own hands." But the writer still needs a towel, as they cannot get towels in the army. The soldiers all enjoy health and comfort. They are expecting recruits from Boston. Relates an adventure crossing the Rappahannock on horseback. "We had no need to cross the River-We done it for fun ..." Tells of a corps on reconnoissance to find out Lee had his troops posted "so

They have moved "a little farder to the front - but it is not far enough for me - it is the front of the defense of Washington..." Tells of the arrivals of generals. "Gen. Abercrombie, our Division Commandant . . . walks around here like an old Farmer. I do not know how he is in a battlefield..." Recounts the journey from Upton Hill to Centreville. "I saw the house where Gen.Stoughton was taken." At Centreville they were joined by the Keystone Battery which was with them at Camp Chase. Describes the arrangement of the Camp. The Park has to be swept every day "so it is clean all the time and looks as nice as a parlor, the grass is the carpet - and indeed Mrs.Weston would be pleased to see our Park."

Centreville, Va.. The writer has sent two memorials of the 9th Mass. Battery of which he is a member, one for Almira (his wife) to be put in a frame, "carefully carved," and one for Mrs. Weston. A second part of this letter is headed "My kind friend." The writer here confides his anxiety because his wife has not written to him, and asks the addressee for the reason. In a third part of the letter, headed "Dear friend," the writer tells that they were paid yesterday and that he will send home forty dollars in care of the addressee. The peas which the writer planted in a box here are coming up nicely. They had a grand review and inspection for General Abercrombie. A.L.S. 4p. 8 x 5 in.

Centreville, Va.. The writer is glad that Mrs. Weston was pleased with the memorial; understands that she wants to put it into the post office for Weymouth people to see. Sends thanks to Mr. Warren Weston for the excellent cheese and cigars sent to Fort Ramsay. "I know Mr. Weston is a very good-hearted gentleman." To several members of the Weston family individually the writer sends his regards "with three cheers for the Victory of Vicksburg-!" Describes his tent: "it is beautiful now - stockaded again." Gives camp news. The men are healthy and have nice times because they have been paid off for four months. The writer read the speech of Gov. Andrew at the presentation of flags to the 54th (colored) Regiment: "it would be the greatest pleasure for me to see a colored Regt."

Thinks that colored soldiers will fight hard for their freedom. Soldiers are needed this summer, as so many are going home; "they will be missed very much - they are old Soldiers... Now I heard a good many say that Recruits will fight just as well as old troops - but I do not beleave it." Explains why, mentioning the need of understanding "the Flank-movements the Rebels so often trye." Hooker is not doing anything now but holding his position, as he is too weak against Lee. The writer's idea is "to give the Rebels Battles wherever we meet them, so the war will be short."

"Fort Ramsey, Upton-hill, Va." They were just about to drill as usual, when the captain's order sounded like a thunderbolt: "Strike your tents, Quick, Quick! We have to march right off Three cheers were given for the marching Order and every one of us was happy-" Describes the breaking up of Camp and the march to Hall's Hill. "We arrived there at 6 o Clock in the Evening it was dark and muddy asic and rained hard, Men and Horses were tired and dit go without our supper..." The writer describes his makeshift sleeping arrangement on top of an ammunition chest. The writer stood guard two hours in the evening and two in the early morning during a heavy rainstorm. Order came to strike the tent and march to Upton's Hill.

Fort Ramsay, Upton Hill, Va.. The writer recounts in dramatic detail the arrival in a carriage of Mr. (R. Warren?) Weston, Anne W. and Emma Weston and his happiness at their visit. Tells of hearing of the Rebel cavalry raid at Dumfries in which 300 prisoners were taken. The same evening, in response to marching orders, "dit we leave Upton hill in good spirit." The writer recounts the march to Arandale, and describes the position of the troops for battle. When it was learned that there was no chance for a fight, "I took a tea-bag and made me a cup of hot tea, whereby I remember Mrs. Weston." They learned from inhabitants that the Rebels had torn up the track, had taken negroes employed by the railroad, and were marching toward Centreville. The writer's battery returned to Upton Hill. Fort Ramsay, Va.: "Nothing is better for a soldier, as to receive letters from home ..." At present, they know nothing about victory, "while out time has not come yet for glory hal-luluja as we go Marching on." Meditates on the uncertain knowledge of "the result of this great Revolution" and on the readiness of the soldiers, "the true Servants of our Government" to open the way for liberty. "Slavery is in front of us which We got to fight, and to drive before us, like the dew before the Sun, Liberty is in the rear of us, which will follow us, like a Lam the Mother." The weather in the South is too changeable for carrying on the war in winter; they will have to wait a month before moving their winter camps. But when the time for action comes it will be eager and desper-

.In the field near Petersburg, Va.. The hair enclosed in the addressee's letter is very light. "Annas German flaxen-hair I call it." Discusses the advisability of sending little Anna to Yarmouth with Leticia; thinks she may be useful at home. "Anna can walk and when you have the Boys on your lap ... you can say-Anna go and get me this or that ..." Hopes since the addressee wants to move, that she will find a suitable place. Suggests finding a house "with another good friendly family together." Mentions the likelihood of his coming home on furlough this winter "to see you and my children." The writer was ordered to take charge of the 3rd gun of his Battery at Fort Warren south of Petersburg. So he left "his nice Summer Residence" and went under a heavy fire

To the Reverend Samuel Henley, Harrow-on-Hill, Middlesex, by the Reverend Mr. Bracken.

[Williamsburg, Va.] Has taken the first opportunity to inform him of the loss of his books in the fire. The boxes were put in the President's house (at William and Mary College) for safe-keeping, but everything was destroyed. Mr. Jefferson had taken away a few; suggests that he get into communication with him on the subject. Would appreciate his correspondence, now that the war is over. Believes that the country will continue to look to England for the greatest benefit. As Republicans, expresses the ideals of his countrymen. A.L.S. 2p. 11 1/2 x 8 in.

To cKate Field?,

cAvano(Havano, Cuba). The writer seems to hear the echo of Miss Field's rebuke, chiding the writer for her long silence. Says she is working like a negro and liking it. The vegetation is lovely and the sunsets suggest Del Sarto. The public is enthusiastic and the theatre is always full. Will go to New York on Apr.25 after one or two stops and will stay there through May if it isn't too hot. The press notices in Havana are very good. The people are republicans.
